Jones Bros., Circus Here Have Big Parade And Show

The Jones Brothers circus arrived in Monessen early this morning and had its white tops up before the city was awake. They came here from Brownsville and will leave tonight for McKees Rocks. This is the first circus to visit Monessen this year and with nice weather, things look auspicious for a crowded tent at both the afternoon and evening performances.

The circus lived up to all its advance notices. It has 20 all-steel cars, declared to be the only all-steel epuipment of any road outfit. The parade this morning showed them to have a fine line of animals, wagons and all other things that go towards making a good show.

An elephant trained to the bit in real horse fashion attracted much attention. This is Dungadun and it took two and a half years to accustom him to the bridle. He is declared to be the only elephant so trained. King, a man eating lion, is declared to have already killed two keepers. A troupe of Parisian models in art studies is an added attraction of the Jones Brothers' circus and there is the usual lineup of side shows and concessions.

H.P. Kutz, press agent of the Jones show, was educated for the ministry with the intention of accepting a German Lutheran Evangelical charge. He drifted into the show business, however, and likes it. He is firmly convinced that the Jones Brothers' show is far ahead of its higher priced competitors when it comes to real attractions.

Prominent Men Were Arrested

Constable Smith returned last evening from Bolivar, where with the aid of a member of the State Police, they conducted a general raid in the town, arresting a number of people for illegal liquor selling and gambling. The town constable, druggist and several other business men were included in those placed under arrest, and the raid caused quite a sensation in that vicinity. The informations were made before Squire Bell of North Belle Vernon, and the prisoners after a preliminary hearing, gave bail for their appearance in court.

Things have been run rather open in the town and a detective was stationed there several weeks ago to secure evidence. He became friendly with his intended victims and was asked to join in the games, and bought liquor on Sunday at the drug store. With sufficient evidence to convict all those imlicated, he suddenly disappeared and the arrests followed. The informations were made in this end of the county in order that the intended raid would not be made public.

Game Tomorrow

After having been defeated at the hands of the carpenters and painters last Friday evening, the Mill men of the Motz Lumber company have declared themselves ready for another game of ball tomorow evening at 5 o'clock.

Great interest has thus far been manifested in the games and, as the two are tied for honors to first place, the decision no doubt will be anxiously awaited. Clark Derby, the star pitcher for the carpenters, who performed so wonderfully last week, will no doubt duplicate his remarkable feat again at this game.

—The Crouch reunion will be held at Kennywood park tomorrow. Roy Smallwood will drive the Smallwood family to the park in their new Jeffrey touring car.

—Fancy Elberta peaches, California pears, gages, country apples, tomatoes, cantaloupes, etc., at Economy's, on Sixth street. 46-tf

Freight Trains In Wreck Last Night

A bad wreck occurred about 5:35 last evening on the local P. & L. E. tracks near the Page plant which delayed traffic on both the east and west bound tracks for a short time. In swinging a string of cars to a side track, the main track was not cleared and a shifting engine with several cars and a caboose crashed into the other train, piling two gondolas up in the air and almost completely demolishing them. Yardmaster Sullivan was soon on the scene and with the assistance of the wreck crew, had both tracks cleared of wreckage in time for the passage of the passenger trains, but the congestion of other freight and coke trains in the yards was so great that it was late in the evening before traffic was again normal.

Suspect Arrested

Thomas Coulter of Millsboro, is being held at the South Brownsville police station for examination by County Detective John L. Smith in regard to the shooting tangle in Brownsville Monday morning that placed Robert Hileman in the Uniontown hospital with a bullet wound in his left side It developed today that Coulter was in the all night party that ended with a near tragedy. He was arrested yesterday on the Monongahela bridge with a revolver in his possession. He is said to have denied all knowledge of the shooting. Hileman is not seriously injured. Four companions are also being held as suspects in the Brownsville police station.

Sport Notes

Vivian Nickalls has thrown up his handsome contract as coach for Pennsy's crews to go against the Teuton. He sails today to join the British army.

It is hard to convince western sport critics that the McFarland-Gribbons match, signed up for September 11, is anything but a farewell frost by Packey.

The latest freak stunt is to cross the country on foot, walking backwards. One Patrick Harmon of Seattle, has tarted from Frisco with his feet to windward.

The newcomer in machinery sport is the hydroplane race, which will have its first try-out at Chicago a week from Saturday.

The new park for the Boston Braves is rapidly nearing completion. Seats for forty two thousand fans are figured on. The world's champs have been homeless during their honor days.

Connie Mack gets a fast third baseman from Texas this week. He is McDonald of the Houston club, and he brings a good record from the Lone Star state.

Discover Ringer At Race Track

Sensation has resulted from the stated discovery of a "ringer" as the winner of the 2:25 pace for a stake of $1,000 at Belle Vernon recently, and the expose of the alleged "Ringer" has led to the money being given to J. M. Rising of Punxsutawney, who finished second. The "ringer" was entered as "Lady St. Clair," and later discovered to be "Edna L." a well known racer with a mark of 2:09 1-4. Of the unmasking of the "ringer" the Horse Review of current issue says:

"Yesterday one of the slickest ringers ever run to earth in these parts was uncovered here and identified. The unmasking was done by Secretary W. H Goeher of the N. T. A., and Clarence Cole, the well known track fanrier, the former coming on from Hartford, Conn., for that purpose and the latter from Indianapolis, Ind. Cole at once identified "Lady St Clair" as "Edna L" 2:09 1-4 by Major Guetline. Delay, the man who was promoting her, put up a good argument to the judges. He made affidavit that she was as represented and informed Secretary Goecher that he would in two days produce in Hartford the breeder and owner of both sire and dame."

In the race which resulted in the uncovering of the supposed ringer, J. M. Rising of Punxsutawney, drove Cora Hal into first place in the first and second heats and in the succeeding heats finished third once and in second place twice, giving him second place. The disqualifying of Edna L., which horse finished first in the last three heats, gives Cora Hal the race.

Police Conduct Raid On Alleged Disorderly House

Chief of Police Wheatley and a squad of local officers made a raid on a house conducted by Mrs. Nellie Tibbs at No. 10 Fourteenth street early last evening and placed the proprietress and Percy Randolph in jail. Henry Hill was arrested later in the evening, and Stewart Hibbs is being hunted by the police. Many complaints have been registered about the house, and following a fight which started Saturday night, the police have been contemplating the raid.

The trouble started when Henry Hill borrowed $3.00 on a watch and when he went to redeem his timepiece, a fight started between Mr. Hibbs and himself. He went home and returned with a shot gun, threatening to kill Hibbs. Refused admittance to the housee, he left and when the men met in a local hotel, Hibbs pulled a gun and got the drop on Hill, but before any damage could be accomplished, both men were ejected and went to the Hibbs home to settle the matter.

Sunday night the trouble was renewed and both Mrs. Hibbs and her husband drew knives on Hill. A settlement was made and Hill claimed he bought a pint of whiskey and a quantity of beer at the house.

The police then decided to take a hand in affairs and the raid was made last evening with Mrs. Hibbs and Randolph, the only prisoners, although a quantity of beer was confiscated. Mrs. Hibbs, Randolph and Hill were given a hearing this morning, but the case was held over until tomorow when it is thought that Mr. Hibbs will be under arrest. They will be charged with illegal liquor selling and maintaining a disorderly house.

In this case a method by which all five checks on a single sheet can be signed by a single operation is being used Quite a number of Monessen and Westmoreland people will receive checks for cars bought during the year.

Her Baby

The other day a man was hanged "by the neck until dead." To the executioner, the doctors, the newspaper men, the jury that tried him, the judge that sentenced him, he was a man! But to a woman—the woman who brought him into this world of ours, he was a baby; her baby.

To this poor worn, heartbroken little woman, the being on the gallows, that being with a black cap closing his eyes to his fellow man; that being with a tightening noose around his neck was not a man. As she sat in her darkened home and waited for the moment that was to dash her baby into eternity, her thoughts harkened back again for the millionth time to her baby's cradle days. Again and again she hugged in her empty arms the spirit form of her baby. She crooned over the baby as she used to do. She looked into those eyes—and saw the black cap. She kissed the baby's cheek and felt the terrible hangman's rope. She touched baby's tiny toes—and found them standing on the gallows!

Just keep that thought in mind when you read about a man being hanged Somewhere a mother—the mother of that man—is having burned into her heart the hanging of her baby.

You know it isn't that mother's fault that her baby turned out to be what the world calls a "bad man." She didn't put the poolroom, the saloon, the gambling den in her boy's way. Society did all that; and society is now hanging the product of its own making. Is it right?

We Draw the Line

We believe in helping the unfortunate. Personally we have contributed many a dollar to those we believed to be worthy. We love to do a charitable act and are charitable from the heart. But when it comes to sending tobacco to the stricken Belgians, we draw the line. The movement to relieve these war stricken people was a grand one, it was waged on behalf of humanity and contributed to almost generally by the people of this country. Now it seems the smokers and chewers are to be looked after. Who wants to send money to a far away country to assist people in satisfying a habit that is useless. Slaves to worthless habits could possibly free themselves as easy at a time like this as at any time in their lives, and if any good comes from the war at all, it might come by depriving people of the means to feed an appetite of this kind. This country is going too far when it ships tobacco across the waters to satisfy the chewing and smoking Belgians.

Your Uncle Sam'l has quite a bunch of heavy smokers. For instance, millions of men and some few women spent $700,000,000 for tobacco last year. Many people have been out of work and times in some localities have been "hard," yet the tobacco habit has been going right along entirely undisturbed by lack of work or hard times, it seems.

For cigars we spent $446,000,000. Cigarets cost us $73,000,000. Smoking and chewing tobacco set us back $157,000,000. Snuff extracted $24,000,000 from our pocketbooks.

Despite the great anti-cigaret fight that has been waged in the United States, the production of "coffin nails" has increased 450 per cent. in the last 10 years. Cigars and smoking tobacco increased a little. Plug tobacco has about held its own. The production of snuff has about doubled in the last 10 years.

Rev. Albian Smith of Madison, Wis., has told that Purity Congress at Frisco that "when men begin to realize that womanhood's greatest charm is located above her chin, only then will our ideals be true."

The case is hopeless. Men who at all understand women will unanimously vote that her greatest charm is below her chin—it's her heart. Beauty fades or becomes monotonous. The same is true of intellectual brilliancy, in the majority of cases. A noble heart in woman is a perpetual ever beautiful joy and inspiration. It is the most charming, the most precious of jewels, besides which most of her other charms are tinsel, or imitation.

Thousands of Pennsylvania voters are responding daily to the stirring slogan of the Pennsylvania Men's League for Woman Suffrage:

"A square deal for women at the polls on November second!"

All over the State fair-minded men have taken up the cry, with the result that huge piles of pledges to vote for the woman suffrage amendment on election day are rapidly accumulating in the headquarters of the Men's League in the Farm Journal Building, Philadelphia. In addition the membership of the league is steadily increasing and branches are springing up in practically every county in the State.

Meanwhile, an active campaign committee, comprising some of the most prominent men in the State, is presenting the merits of suffrage for women in a variety of ways. Great stress is being laid on the personal appeal and effective campaigning is being done by men speakers in a number of counties

The Men's League differs from other organizations working for women suffrage in that its members, being voters, are not politically tongue-tied. Their voices will be heard at the polls.

Besides urging the justice of the woman's cause, these men are bringing to the attention of their fellowmen some of the defects in the machinery that might disqualify them from expressing their opinions on the suffrage amendment on November second.

One pamphlet which the Men's League is sending broadcast urges the voters to pay their poll tax and to be sure to register either on September 2, 7 or 11. It states that in Philadelphia alone, in 1914, 106,706 voters did not register, and were therefore disqualified. This is an average of 2,000 to each ward of the city.

Grange Is Helping.

In addition to the work being done by the league and its individual members to advance the cause of woman suffrage, the strongest kind of cooperation is being given by a number of State organizations. One of the most powerful of these organizations that is lending State-wide co-operation is the Pennsylvania Grange. The National and State organizations have endorsed woman suffrage for years and the State body is backing this endorsement up with active work and getting hundreds of men's names "on the dotted line" of the membership pledges

On the grounds of justice and fair play, many clinching arguments in the form of "suffrage flyers" have been sent out by the Men's League. One that brings the matter close to home when war clouds appears on the horizon, makes this inquiry: "Who Shares the Cost of War?"

The answer to this and the nine other specific questions that follow is—"Woman."

The other questions are as follows:

Who face death to give life to men?

Who love and work to rear sons that are then killed in battle?

Who plant fields and harvest crops when all the able bodied men are called to war?

Who keep the shops and schools and work in factories while men are in the trenches?

Who nurse the wounded, feed the sick, support the helpless and brave all danger?

Who see their homes destroyed by fire and shell, their little ones made destitute, their daughters outraged?

Who are sent adrift alone, no hope of shelter for their unborn children?

Who must suffer agony for every soldier that is killed?

Who are called upon to sacrifice to pay the terrible cost of war?

The pamphlet concludes: "Who dares to say that war is not woman's business? In the name of Justice and Civilization, give women a voice in the government and in the councils which make or prevent war Vote for the Woman Suffrage amendment in November."

THOMAS A. EDISON, PAYING TRIBUTE TO WIFE, SAYS WOMEN SHOULD HAVE VOTE

Thomas A. Edison, the country's foremost inventor, who recently was chosen to aid the government as a member of a special board to study modern war problems, is a suffragist and attributes his success to the devotion of his wife

At a banquet given in his honor in connection with the presentation of a gold medal, Mr Edison, following glowing tributes from numerous speakers paid a glowing tribute to his wife, to whom, he said, he owed in large part the success that had come to him.

"Every woman in this country is going to have the vote," he said. "This is certain," he added.

Mr. Edison's genial smile gave way to a frown when the anti-suffrage argument "that women would neglect their homes" if they had the vote, was mentioned to him.

"Bosh!" he said "You haven't heard of suffrage breaking up homes in the Western States, have you" I haven't"

There have been many "arguments" against suffrage but I have seen no "reason" quoted from speeches of anti-suffragists in Allegheny county why the woman suffrage amendment should not be passed—Miss Mary L. Hay, secretary, Equal Franchise Federation of Pittsburgh.

THIS STATE IS PRIZE WINNER

Panama Exposition Gives Us Grand Honor For Health.

G. O. P. CREATED DEPARTMENT

Excellent Work of Dr. Dixon In Systematizing Big Problem of Health Rewarded by Judges at Panama-Pacific Exposition—In Ten Years Department Has Worked Wonders.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—At the Panama-Pacific Exposition recently the Pennsylvania State Department of Health was given the Grand Prize for the exhibit visualizing the results of ten years' work in protecting the lives of the people of the Commonwealth This is another feather in the cap of the Republican party, which has been responsible for the creation of the department and its upkeep.

The International Jury which made the award had before them other exhibits from various states, but they were unanimous in selecting Pennsylvania as the foremost exponent in the union of public health work.

It was a Republican Legislature that in 1905 put upon the statute books of Pennsylvania the law which stands today as the most effective measures for the protection of public health which has ever been enacted in the United States.

Governor Pennypacker chose Dr. Samuel G. Dixon as Commissioner to organize this new Department of the State government and every succeeding Governor has reappointed him to this important office Ten years is not a lengthy time in which to accomplish changes that effect an improvement in the conditions of several million people and yet within that comparatively brief length of time the work done has been responsible for the saving of more than 78,000 lives.

When the Department of Health was created tuberculosis was responsible for one death in every ten The campaign against this dread destroyer of human life has been carried on actively throughout the civilized world during the past decade. In no place has the activity been greater nor have the efforts to combat this disease been more effective than in Pennsylvania. A system has been built up which covers the entire area of the State and every indigent sufferer from tuberculosis may have without cost, free sanatorium treatment.

The State Department of Health has established one hundred and fifteen tuberculosis dispensaries located in the sixty seven counties of the State and has three great Sanatoria at Cresson, Mont Alto and Hamburg with a combined capacity of over two thousand beds They take the sufferers who are first given medical examination and treatment at the dispensaries and bring them back to health. In 1906, there were nine thousand deaths a year from this cause At the present time, although the population of the State has increased more than a million, there are a thousand less deaths each year from tuberculosis

When the Department was first organized boroughs, towns and cities poured their sewage into the nearest streams without hinderance and with no consideration for the fact that other municipalities must use this water for drinking purposes As a result of this condition there were every year in Pennsylvania some forty or fifty thousand cases of typhoid fever and four thousand deaths from this disease

One of the most serious problems which the Commissioner of Health had to face was this enormous yearly toll of typhoid. Within ten years there has been a 75 per cent. reduction in the annual number of deaths and illnesses from this cause

Soon after the establishment of the Department a division was organized for the distribution of diptheria and tetanus antitoxin At the present time there are six hundred and seventy one stations where physicians may secure antitoxin free of cost for those who are unable to pay for it. Without the use of antitoxin diptheria is one of the most deadly diseases of childhood. With a mortality of 40 per cent: with antitoxin promptly administered this has been reduced to between seven and eight per cent. As a result thousands of children owe their lives to the Department's efforts in this direction.

One of the Department's important works is the medical inspection of the children in the fourth class school districts These include all the school districts with a population of less than five thousand. During the past year more than four hundred thousand school children have been inspected. Of this number some 70 per cent were found to be defective As the majority of these defects are remedied and if they were undiscovered thousands of these children would be seriously hampered in their struggle to secure an education

The Department, in addition to the direct supervision of public health work along the lines mentioned, is continually co-operating with and stimulating the Board of Health in urban communities and endeavoring to arouse all of the agencies philanthropic and charitable to aid in the reduction of disease and suffering.

The Traveling Public Health Exhibit is maintained which covers all the subjects relating to public health

In addition to this work the Department issues regularly a bulletin and special educational articles which aid materially in keeping the public interest in health matters aroused.

It is not surprising that this tremendous agency which is working continually for the betterment of conditions pertaining to the health and welfare of the people should have been recognized and appreciated outside the boundaries of Pennsylvania

The exhibit at the Panama Pacific Exposition is crowded with visitors from every part of the United States and foreign countries who are studying carefully the methods used and the results obtained by the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 1568 Constant St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound"—Mrs. ADA WILT, 303 Walnut St., Hanover, Pa.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The Power of Sympathy

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

When the Spanish-American war broke out Ralph and Edgar Townsend, brothers, enlisted in the same regiment of sharpshooters and were assigned to the same company. One day they were out on the picket line sniping for the Spaniards. Their position was behind a stone wall, its continuity broken here and there. Ralph was on one side of a gap, while Edgar was on the other side, the opening between them being eight or ten yards.

Edgar concluded to make a dash to join his brother. He had passed safely over all but a couple of yards of the distance when Ralph saw a Spanish sharpshooter taking aim at his brother. Ralph had just emptied his piece or he would have shot the Spaniard. As it was, he sprang between him and Edgar and received a shot which, grazing the spine, paralyzed his lower limbs. He was discharged from the service and sent home, where he submitted to an operation that partly restored his locomotive powers, but he was in a measure crippled for life.

As soon as the war was over Edgar Townsend rejoined his brother, resolving to devote the rest of his life to him. Ralph was twenty years old, Edgar twenty-two. Ralph would not admit that he was crippled and was very sensitive at the mention of his being so. As for Edgar making any change whatever in his life's plans on his account he would not hear of it, nor did Ralph seem to realize that he had sacrificed himself for his brother. He considered what he had done simply in the line of his duty as a soldier. Edgar, on the contrary, was impressed with the idea that his brother had taken a burden which he should have borne himself.

Nevertheless as soon as Edgar saw that Ralph was averse to such an interpretation of the status between them, he refrained from any mention of it, and wherever it was possible to conceal any sacrifice he made for his brother he did so. He soon came to studying Ralph's wishes, and wherever they conflicted with his own, made pretense that what Ralph wanted was distasteful to him.

Then came Edith Payne into the lives of the brothers. She was sympathetic with Ralph, but her heart went out to Edgar. The one she loved as one who needed her, the other she loved as one she needed. Edgar, noticing that his brother was daily growing more dependent on her, refrained from paying her any marked attention.

As time went on Edgar perceived that Edith was growing to be a necessity to Ralph. Moreover, he noticed that while Edith was devoted to Ralph, there were indications that her heart was setting toward himself. One day when he and Edith were speaking of Ralph Edgar said to her.

"I feel it my duty to say to you, Edith, that I have seen what perhaps has passed unnoticed by you. Ralph loves you."

The girl paled, and she had cause to pale. She loved Edgar and she knew that while his brother held this view, Edgar was lost to her. He would never stand between his brother and her.

"I hope," she said presently, "that you are mistaken."

"And I hope," said Edgar, "if you think you cannot respond, that you are mistaken. Our attentions to those dependent upon us often draw us to them with far greater force than we realize."

Edith sighed. She knew that the man she loved was endeavoring to persuade her to give herself to the man she only pitied. But she said nothing more. She knew what Edgar would have her do. She did not know his feelings toward her, but she surmised that he had no desire to possess her himself. Even if he had he would give her up to his brother.

Soon after this brief dialogue Edgar went away for a time, leaving Edith and Ralph together. Before his departure he said to Edith, "I hope when I return to find that you have decided to make Ralph happy."

It was thus that Edith was led to bear a part of the burden of the man she loved by giving herself to the man she did not love. She considered what he had said to her a command, and she would not disobey. When Edgar returned she told him that she and Ralph were engaged.

She looked Edgar in the eye when she made the announcement, hoping to see him wince. If it was a shock to him he concealed it so well that she was deceived. From that time she gave herself up more and more to Ralph's companionship, and when the wedding day came went with him to the altar a martyr.

Then Edgar, feeling that his brother no longer needed him as before, spent much of his time away from him. Some said he did not dare trust himself near his brother's wife.

As the years sped on Ralph Townsend grew more and more helpless, his wife more and more devoted to him. Ten years after his marriage he died. Those who knew of the sacrifice that had been made supposed that Edith and Edgar would quickly come together. They have been disappointed. Four years after Edith became a widow she and Edgar had not married. It is said that she illustrates Edgar's words to her years before. "Our attentions to those dependent upon us often draw us to them with far greater force than we realize."

Edgar is still a bachelor.

LOVERS DOOMED TO THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Winston-Saem, Aug. 18—Mrs. Ida Ball Warren and her former sweetheart, S. P. Christy, must face death in the electric chair next month for the murder of the woman's husband. The murder which occurred just a year ago today, was long concealed. Last April the body of Warren was found in Muddy Creek. His wife in a confession, implicated Christy, who had returned to Texas. A counter-confession by Christy implicated Mrs. Warren in the plot to do away with her husband.

Mrs. Warren will be the first white woman to pay the death penalty in the history of this state. The story of her love affairs, her power over men, was told in detail at the trial which ended this month. Not only was Christy a pliant tool in her hands but it was shown that her influence extended to her own son-in-law, Clifford Stonestreet. Hardly of age, this youth was implicated in the murder through his aid to Mrs. Warren in disposing of the body. Three years' imprisonment is the punishment meted out to him.

Mrs. Warren made a final attempt to clear her skirts of the murder when she took the witness stand in her own behalf. She testified that G. J. Warren, her husband, had been killed in a fight with Christy at the boarding house which she was running last August. She denied having any part in the murder. Young and prepossessing, she faced the court fearlessly.

Ida Ball Warren first met Christy at Grand Saline, Tex. There they lived as man and wife until Warren came along. Warren and she eloped to Winston-Salem and were married. She was conducting a boarding house when Christy appeared in Winston-Salem, a year ago last July. He stayed in town a month. On the night of August 18th, the husband found Christy with his wife, and a fight ensued, according to her story.

All three of the defendants have entered appeals, claiming that the evidence introduced did not justify the verdict. Meanwhile Mrs. Warren and Christy are facing the death sentence, which will be carried out September 24 unless the higher courts interfere.
